

Membership Ceremony

In a moment, I will ask all those who wish to be seen as members of Wiesbaden UU to come around the Chalice table in a circle. But first a few words...

We inaugurated our membership book at the last service, and today we would like to take a moment to recognize those who choose to be called members of Wiesbaden UU. Membership is never required in order to participate in our community, and our Friends are always welcome to share their time and companionship with us, and to share in the sacred space we create.

In simple terms, to be a member, one makes a commitment to nurture our group, to help it flourish, to secure its future. This can be manifested by coming to the activities regularly, or by volunteering to perform needed roles, or by making financial contributions when this called for.

All those who would like to sign our membership book, or who have signed it, since this is our first public acknowledgement, please come up and form a circle around the chalice table. Again, Friends, please know that we have no intention of excluding you, and we cherish your friendship.

We would like to acknowledge in this sacred space that you have become members of Wiesbaden Unitarian Universalists. Do you take on the commitment to nurture our group, to help it flourish, and to secure its future? Please say "I do."

Let's greet each other as members and friends of Wiesbaden UU.
